Spring Comes to the Springs

Despite a few false starts, Spring is really here.

Birds, bees, buds,
Butterflies, Spring blooms,
And bodacious
Haiku poetry
Anne

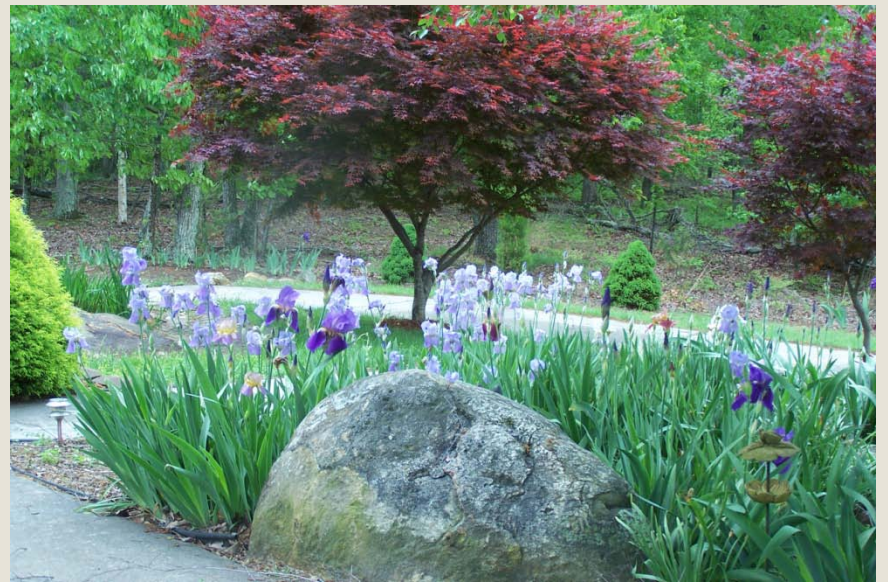

Daffodils, dandelions, and Carolina jasmine.

Irises thrive on the mountain.

Mountain – top of clouds

Towering behind

The hedge ...

Or a flowering plum?

See how gorgeous the world

Aflame with blossoms

At long last

Spring unfolds

Anne

Among the pink redbud blossoms

And tufts of flowers,

stone outcroppings

Anne

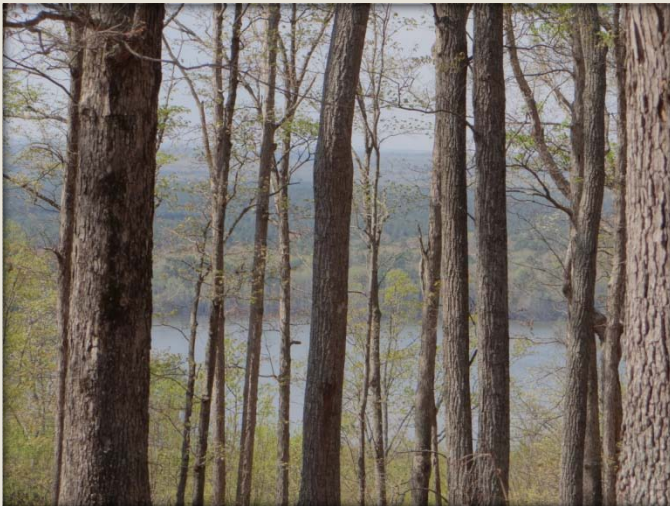

Ah, Spring!

Japanese Maples

After the long winter
Tall and lovely trees
Reward us with
New leaves

Anne

Now that I am old
Even tender days
Of Spring
See...can make me cry

Issa

Take time ...
Smell the flowers,
Sip some tea or wine,
Sit on the porch ...
Relax

Log Homes II & III will be presented in June & July!
